

HOG MARKET GOES UP

Tone Firm But Receipts Were Off.

TOPS UP TO $4.30

Cattle Steady With Few Lots Offered.

The Wichita hog market yesterday was quoted as strong to 5 cents higher, with a fair line of offerings received and the quality, in the main, very fair. As compared with the day previous, the receipts were not nearly so great, and the average weight was also 5 pounds heavier. It was a good day, all things considered, and all the several interests were well satisfied. This market was strong and well maintained, as compared with all the markets in the west. One of the latter reported "active and strong," another as simply "strong," and a third as "steady to strong." This market was all through the trading very strong and the final quotation was for car hogs strong to 5 cents higher. There was not a large run of receipts, but what appeared were readily taken at the best market prices. In all, five cars of hogs went over the scales, and these brought the best market prices. These cars ranged from lights to medium, one being extra heavy. There was a good packing demand, and this readily absorbed all the offered hogs. The tone of the market was strong and had been in this way for some time, and it was actually said they would all of them be taken at the highest possible figures. It was not an aggressive day as on Wednesday, when the record was broken as to receipts and all of the western markets this point did very well and more than held their own.

The cattle market yesterday was steady with a light line of mixed stuff in. This was the regular daily trading and all of the small offerings from the local and foreign trade were readily accepted and sold at once at good prices. There was a large contingent of stockers received in the afternoon, and a number of which will appear in the next issue.

ADVANCES IN WHEAT

On Export Demand and Decrease in Receipts.

SEPTEMBER 1-4 HIGHER

December 1-2 and May 3-4—Other Markets Mixed.

Chicago, Sept. 28.—Preferred futures in all the grain markets were strong today and closed at advances. A good export demand for wheat and constantly decreasing receipts formed the foundation of the wheat strength. Trade was broad and general in most markets. September wheat advanced 1-4¢, December 1-3¢ and May 2-4¢. September corn declined 1-2¢ on heavy selling by locals, but December advanced 1-8¢. September oats declined 1-4¢ and December advanced a shade. Provisions were steady but closed unchanged to a shade lower.

Liverpool played a prominent part in influencing the early tone of wheat trading. That market opened lower but quickly recovered and at the opening here showed good advances. This was regarded as indicating the seriousness of the Transvaal situation. Early indications also pointed to a large clearance for the day. Outside buying was quite heavy at the opening. New York houses being especially prominent. The opening in December was at 75-5/8 to 40, an advance of 1-4¢ to 5/8 over yesterday's close. This was at call price and for a time the market met heavy selling against those privileges. A good deal of general profit taking was also done, and a decline in December to 73-3/4 took place, but before 11 o'clock the market had again become strong.

The heavy general buying. This continued falling off in receipts at prominent receiving points attracted more attention and the belief was more general that the winter wheat supplies from now on would be much lighter. New York and St. Louis at the same time reported numerous acceptances of yesterday's cables offered. Best prices were obtained in the last hour of trading. The market during that time exhibited a good deal of nervousness, and the price advanced rapidly, though within a narrow range. Realizing was heavy, but on all slight breaks the market received substantial support and though best prices were not maintained the close was at a substantial advance. A good improvement in the demand for flour was reported and this had an influence on the wheat trade. The market at the close showed a marked growth of bull sentiment among local traders, and trading throughout showed the effects of increased outside interest. A bull feature was the falling off of 500,000 bushels in primary receipts in the past four days. The lightness of local receipts, 125 cars, was a factor in the early trading. Total primary receipts were 1,122,000 bushels, against 656,000 bushels a year ago. December advanced to 74-1/8, and reacted to 73-5/8, where it closed. Considerable trading was done in March and that future developed more strength than anything else on the floor. It ranged from 71-1/2 to 73-1/8, and closed 72-3/4 higher at 73-1/8.

Corn was fairly active and irregular. There was heavy liquidation of September, supposed to be most prominent on the long side, and this influenced the market all day. Deferred futures, in which the weak feature of a declining market, were weak for a time, but recovered on covering by shorts, and closed steady. Receipts were 1,135 cars. The seaboard reported 30 loads taken for export. December ranged from 73-1/4 to 73-1/8 and closed 1-1/8 lower at 72-3/4.

Oats reflected the action of corn. September being weak on moderate liquidation in spite of small receipts, while deferred futures were steady. Trading was small and mostly of a scalping nature. The cash market was rather slow. Receipts were 24 cars. December ranged from 72-3/4 to 72-3/8 and closed a shade higher at 72-3/4.

September closed lower at 21-1/8. Provisions were firm and in good demand. The chief influence was the heavy cash demand, and fair advances were secured during the morning on buying by local operators and exporters. Later heavy selling by packers caused a reaction, but the market closed steady at slight changes. At the close January was 21-1/2 lower at 8-1/8, and January rice a shade lower at 8-1/4.

Estimated receipts for Friday: Wheat, 165 cars; corn, 700; oats, 215; hogs, 21,000 head.

At the Crawford theater Horst's "The Texas Star" appeared during the street fair. Almost every theater-goer throughout the length and breadth of the land is acquainted with the much-proving qualities of this famous satire on American politics from the pen of Chas. Hoyt. Maverick Brander, a cattle king, who owns 30,000 head of steers and a daughter called "Bossy," who is declared to him the whole world. The family lives in a four room cottage, and the old man's simple cottage is supplemented by a whisky bottle and an enormous revolver. Major Tull, one of the widest and wisest Texans in the state, is a local politician who proposes to run old Brander for congress, but Brander runs a street fair and threatens to shoot if he is elected. The campaign is a success, and Brander is compelled to accept at the muzzle of all the shooting lions in town. A young captain of the regular army has become engaged to Bossy while stationed in his vicinity, but when the family arrived in Washington and Bossy wrote out a half pocket of jewels on her person, Captain Bright is horrified. He finds it impossible to reason with her or to come down her extravagance, and at the same time Mother Brander is making herself a fright, and the old man appears like a scared animal. Bossy discovers that her lover is ashamed of their appearance and breaks the engagement, sending him from the house, and she and mother put in some hard study at a book of etiquette. Old Brander sees an amazingly well in his daughter, a congressman and a social favorite, and he is in a hurry to get into the ways of statecraft; by Brassy Gall, an accomplished and utterly unprincipled lobbyist.
